The scientific paper should contain chapters: Introduction, Methods of work (sample of examinees, sample of variables, research protocol, data processing methods), Research results, Discussion and Conclusion.

Citation and References: References should be cited according to the APA system. Everything stated in the text should be in the bibliography, and only what was used in the text should be listed in the bibliography.

Please, see here, for basics of APA and frequently asked questions. The list of references may contain only the authors cited in the text. Authors are obliged to include DOIs in their reference lists, if possible.

Reference citations in text

The study should be documented throughout the text by citing by author(s) and date (within parentheses) of the works used in the research, i.e. "... The recent comparison (Hughes, 2001) showed...", or "... Hughes (2001) compared...".

When there are two authors, always cite both names every time the reference occurs in the text. In the text, the surnames should be joined by "and" (Vuleta, Milanović and Jukić (2004) reported...), whereas within parentheses the sign "&" should be used. The same is valid for three and more authors (up to six). Three, four, or five authors should be cited the first time the reference appears in the text; in subsequent referencing, cite only the family name of the first author followed by "et al." – 1st time (Vuleta, Milanović, & Jukić, 2004); 2nd time: (Vuleta, et al., 2004). Six and more authors should always be cited like: the surname of the first author followed by ", et al.". Be sure when shortening two or more references of the same primary author, to keep enough information to distinguish these citations (by citing of as many of the subsequent authors as necessary).

Reference list

Alphabetical order of references in the list should be followed. References should be complete and contain all the authors (up to and six) that have been listed in the title of the original publication. Titles of references written in languages other than English should be additionally translated into the English language and enclosed within square brackets. Full titles of journals are required (not their abbreviations). The author of the article is responsible for the accuracy of data and of references.

The style of referencing should follow the examples below:
